History Will Absolve Me

Fidel Castro

1. John Steinbeck (1929-1962), Cuban writer, revolutionary champion of the struggle for liberty

Translated by Alfred de Lange

Twelve years earlier...

From the Bougainville prison we were sent by plane to the Isle of Pines for thirteen days.

Fidel Castro's coming was not, then, as some of his admirers might think.

The people, who had remained in the prison, were well satisfied.

América: No, we were not afraid. To tell the truth, and in accordance with your wish...

I'm tired. I was in and now I want to stay my feet.

The street cars in and not to stay my feet.

I don't remember the exact words very well but I do recall this saying.

I will not repeat the exact words very well, but in order to be exact...

immediate solution remains in the present-day world. social problems are not solved by spontaneous revolution.

The financial market is being made in Latin America. In connection with these problems, the states of the republics of the Americas have the right to regulate the flow of capital, thus controlling the process of economic integration. In this respect, the situation is somewhat similar to that of the European Union. However, the differences are significant.

The European Union is a political and economic organization that includes 27 countries. It is composed of the following countries:
The United Kingdom, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Belgium, Luxembourg, Ireland, Greece, Austria, Sweden, Finland, Denmark,
Netherlands, Poland, Hungary, Czech Republic, Slovakia, Bulgaria, Romania, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Malta, and Cyprus.

These countries have decided to work together to achieve the common goal of economic development and political stability. They have established a single market, a common currency (the euro), and a customs union.

The European Union was established in 1993 to ensure the free movement of goods, people, services, and capital within the union. It also aims to promote peace, prosperity, and social justice throughout Europe.

The European Union is managed by the European Commission, an independent executive body that representative of the European Parliament and the European Council. The European Commission is composed of 27 commissioners, one for each member country.

Each commissioner is responsible for a specific policy area, such as agriculture, transport, or environment.

The European Council is the main decision-making body of the European Union. It is composed of the heads of state or government of each member country. The European Council meets at least once per year to discuss important issues and adopt new policies.

The European Parliament is the legislative body of the European Union. It is composed of 705 members elected by universal suffrage in each member country. The European Parliament has the right to initiate legislation, adopt laws, and approve the EU budget.

The European Court of Justice is the highest court of the European Union. It is responsible for ensuring that EU law is applied correctly in all member countries. The court has jurisdiction over questions of EU law, including those relating to the interpretation of treaties and the application of EU law.

The European Central Bank (ECB) is the central bank of the European Union. It is responsible for setting monetary policy and issuing the euro, the single currency of the eurozone. The ECB is independent of national governments and has the sole right to set interest rates.

The European System of Central Banks (ESCB) is an association of central banks in the eurozone. The ESCB is responsible for implementing monetary policy and conducting transactions among the central banks.

The European Banking Authority (EBA) is an independent agency that supervises banks and financial institutions in the eurozone.
It is responsible for ensuring that banks comply with EU financial rules and regulations.

The European Insurance and Occupational Pensions Authority (EIOPA) is an independent agency that supervises the insurance and pensions sector in the eurozone. It is responsible for ensuring that insurance companies and pension funds comply with EU financial rules and regulations.

The European Securities and Markets Authority (ESMA) is an independent agency that supervises the financial markets sector in the eurozone. It is responsible for ensuring that financial market participants comply with EU financial rules and regulations.

The European Investment Bank (EIB) is a public institution that provides finance for projects that support economic development and social cohesion in the eurozone. The EIB is owned by the member states of the European Union.

The European Defence Agency (EDA) is an agency of the European Union that aims to strengthen the cooperation between the member states on defence issues. The EDA is responsible for developing strategies and projects to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of the European defence sector.

The European Border and Coast Guard Agency (Frontex) is an agency of the European Union that is responsible for managing the external borders of the union.
It is responsible for preventing and detecting illegal immigration, smuggling, and terrorism across the borders of the European Union.

The European External Action Service (EEAS) is an agency of the European Union that represents the Union in its international relations.

The European Audiovisual Observatory (EAO) is an agency of the European Union that provides analysis and intelligence on the audiovisual sector in the European Union. It is responsible for monitoring the impact of the audiovisual sector on the public and the society.
